Roosevelt Appeals for Sacrifices To Defeat Axis

President Tells Congress Attack On U. S. May Come If Allies Lose

Message both Praised and Criticized; Says Safety of People in Americas Is Involved

By RICHARD L. TURNER
WASHINGTON, Jan. 6 (AP)—Gravely and earnestly, President Roosevelt informed Congress today that "a swift and driving increase in our armament production" was the immediate need of a critical period and appealed for widespread personal sacrifices in a national effort to defeat the Axis powers lest they win abroad and then attack the Americas.

"Let us say to the Democracies," he said, "we Americans are vitally concerned in your defense of freedom. We are putting forth our energies, our resources and our organizing powers to give you strength to regain and maintain a free world. We shall send you, in ever-increasing numbers, ships, planes, tanks, guns. This is our purpose and our pledge."

A slow-paced delivery accompanied by an ever rising tone, almost reaching the proportions of a shout, was this the most emphatically spoken passage of the address—his annual message to Congress, delivered as usual in person and received with repeated, enthusiastic ovations.

Congress Divided
After the speech was over, however, it became apparent that Congress was sharply divided on it. For example, while Senator Barkley (D-Ky.) called it "magnificent" and Senator Austin (R-Vt.) likewise praised it, Senator Ellender (D-La.) said he thought the president covered too much territory in trying to "give the whole world the kind of life we lead in this country" and Rep. Tinkham (R-Mass.) exclaimed that the president had "declared war on the whole world."

The president said he would ask for "greatly increased new appropriations" for defense, and for lending arms to England, called for higher taxes to defray the bill in part, warned against listening to those who "preach the 'ism' of appeasement," and as a means of strengthening the moral fiber of the American people in the face of "foreign peril," made four recommendations for domestic action.

Asks Greater Pensions
Old age pensions and unemployment insurance should be spread to cover a greater proportion of the population, he said, opportunities for adequate medical care should be increased, a better means of providing employment for those deserving of it should be devised, and no person should be allowed to grow wealthy out of the defense program.

Under the maze of steel beams and girders erected as a temporary support for the capitol roof, the president addressed a packed House chamber. Members of Senate and House, cabinet members and dozens of notables were on the floor. The galleries were jammed with listeners. (Continued on Page 2, Col. 2)

Italy Admits Loss Of Strongholds in Battle in Libya

But Rome Fails To Mention Capture of Bardia by the Australians

(By The Associated Press)
ROME, Jan. 6.—The Italian high command admitted loss of "more strongholds" on the Bardia front in Libya today, but avoided any mention of the fall of Bardia itself as Italians at home exchanged gifts on a chilly, gray Epiphany day.

Identification of the North African points from which Fascist troops had been routed by the British army of the Nile was expected to be given the Italian populace only after the holiday.

"Italian Army Intact"
The Rome radio said "the Italian army is intact," and added that the invading army in Libya, "far from its bases, faces the same situation as the British said the Italians did at Sidi Barrani." Western Egyptian port which was one of the first objectives of the British.

we would save America, we must use our navy to that end. "We have committed acts of beligerency in the way of furnishing arms, material and equipment almost from the beginning of the war. We have actually made a military defensive alliance with Canada, and Canada has actually declared war upon Germany. We also have set up joint control of bases in British-occupied territory, and must join Britain in their defense if attacked. "So, on sufferance of Germany, we still talk of 'aid to Britain short of war' and our citizenry almost in a body endorse and applaud. "To me the 'short of war' stuff has reflected a craven and pusillanimous trait of character of our people which I was sure did not exist. This was either war or it wasn't. If it was our war why weren't we in it? If it was not our war, why are we meddling with it?"

Britain's Greatest Aviatix Forced To Bail Out of Her Plane

London, Jan. 6 (AP)—Amy Johnson Mollison, Britain's greatest aviatix, drowned in the icy waters of the Thames estuary yesterday after she was forced to bail out of the aircraft she was flying for the air transport auxiliary.

Surface craft tried in vain to rescue the war-working ladybird who had winged, during her spectacular career, from Britain to Australia and to America, Japan and China and across Africa.

For hours, searching boats crisscrossed the scene where the 32-year-old flier fell but were unable to find her body.

The searchers did find her flight authorization papers and some gear bearing her name. The papers indicated she was off her course, possibly lost, when her machine dived into the choppy estuary.

The accident occurred in mid-afternoon. Lookouts on ships in the estuary sighted the plane about 750 feet up. It started to climb, then suddenly turned and made a long glide into the water.

At about 200 feet a figure with a parachute fluttered away from the plane and plummeted into the water.

It was the end, in the narrow seas of home, for the woman who had dared the vast expanses of oceans and the world around.

Whether anyone was with her was not definitely known. As a member of the air transport auxiliary she was engaged in flying from one airfield to another, picking up other women pilots who ferried planes from the factories.

Germany's Course In Balkans Kept A Strict Secret

No Authentic Inkling of What Nazis Propose in Southeast

By ALVIN J. STEINKOPF
BERLIN, Jan. 6 (AP)—Everybody in Europe except the Germans seemed to be talking about the Balkans tonight.

Not a single authentic inkling of what, if anything, the German army in the southeast intends to do came from any authoritative quarter. Spokesmen smiled at the flood of rumors some of which were termed fantastic.

"It's a splendid fog and others made it for us," said one.

This confirmed a general impression among correspondents that German authorities welcomed the welter of rumors as a screen behind which to perfect any plans.

Nazi Air Force Not Weakened

One definite observation made was that the presence of German aviators in Italy who could conceivably operate with land troops in the Balkans does not weaken the air force which is devoting its attention to England.

It was stated officially that replacement of aviators was no problem; that German training periods had not been shortened and that Germany was not able even to use all those who had volunteered for air service.

British Warships Play Big Part in Capture of Bardia

Monitor Terror Drops 600 Tons of Shells into Italian Port

By LARRY ALLEN
ABOARD THE MONITOR TERROR WITH THE BRITISH MEDITERRANEAN FLEET, Jan. 6 (AP)—This weirdly camouflaged, hard-fighting British warship splashed back into her Egyptian base today after handing Bardia a New Year's greeting of nearly 600 tons of TNT-packed shells.

The 7,200-ton Terror, slow and broad-beamed to carry her fifteen-inch guns, had come through a hail of bombs and constant torpedo attacks to shell Italian shore batteries at the Libyan port in the naval bombardment which helped clear the way for the British army's advance.

At one time, an officer said, "the torpedoes were so thick in the water we could almost knot them." While the Terror fired her fifteen-inch shells, the gunboats Ladybird and Aphid, moving inshore like Mississippi river mudscoops, pumped their six-inch shells to blast Italian motor transports from the highway atop the sandy plateau and scatter Italian troop concentrations.

Other Warships Help

The Terror alone poured 140 tons of high explosives into the besieged Italian fort on Jan. 3, as the prelude to the biggest bombardment of the Mediterranean war by British battleships, cruisers and destroyers.

"We dropped a big lot of bricks into the heart of a motor transport moving along the road," said one of the ship's officers. "When the smoke cleared there just 'asn't any transport there."

From about ten miles out the Monitor Terror rained shells, while the Ladybird and Aphid moved in closer, hurling their shells as fast as their eager gunners could load.

The Italian shore batteries returned the fire vigorously, one shell landing near the Aphid and causing "slight casualties."

Bombarded Fleet of Trucks

Once during the bombardment the Terror sighted an Italian truck convoy trying to get supplies to Bardia's beleaguered troops. The ship's guns sprayed a five-mile stretch of road, apparently crumbling the trucks as though they were eggshells.

British naval authorities credited the bigger Terror's two ducklike companions—the 625-ton Ladybird and Aphid—with blasting the wedge in Bardia's defenses which eventually opened the way to the fall of the fort.

Sir Andrew Cunningham, commander-in-chief of the British Mediterranean fleet, visited the Terror after her return from Bardia and congratulated the captain for writing in hot lead the first chapter finale of the battle of Bardia.

Austin Says American People Are Prepared To Fight if Necessary

Vermont Republican Supports Roosevelt on Foreign Situation

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6 (AP)—Senator Austin (R-Vt.) asserted tonight that the American people had enlisted on the side of "freedom" in the present world conflict and "touching elbows with the British"—were prepared to fight if that becomes necessary.

"Let no dictator get the impression that Americans will not fight," the acting Republican leader of the Senate said in a radio address. "Of course, they will not fight unless and until they have to. But they know the cost of freedom and they are preparing to pay that cost if they have to."

British Bombers Damage Italian Boats and Plants

Submarines Sunk at Bordeaux, London Statement Says

(By The Associated Press)
LONDON, Jan. 6.—British bombers have sunk or damaged seriously a number of Italian submarines at Bordeaux, France, and have bombed industrial northern Italy so effectively that some airplane plants there have decided to move, the air ministry declared tonight in a roundup of damage reported inflicted on the Italian war machine.

The summary, touching on operations as far back as October, followed the battle of Bardia.

At any rate, the Royal Air Force pounded Tobruk in heavy raids similar to those loosed upon Bardia in the forty-eight hours preceding the final land attacks which culminated in its capture yesterday.

Tons of Bombs Dropped

Tons of bombs were dropped on military objectives at the seaport base.

At least one motorized spearhead was reported twenty miles from Tobruk, already blockaded by the British.

Australian troops carefully mopped up the Bardia region preparatory to further operations while British tanks moved westward, waiting for orders.

The list of prisoners taken in Bardia rose to more than 30,000. Thus Marshal Rodolfo Graziani, commander of the Italians in North Africa, has lost, British reports said, one-third of his army in captured, killed or wounded men, and his

British May Pass Tobruk To Attack Bengasi First

Drive of 250 Miles Across Desert Indicated by Developments

(By The Associated Press)
CAIRO, Egypt, Jan. 6.—The possibility that British desert troops might sweep past the Italian seaport base at Tobruk and plunge on more than 250 miles across the Libyan sands to attack Bengasi arose tonight even as the advance guard of British motorized units threatened Tobruk's outer defenses.

Tobruk, seventy miles across the desert from Bardia, which the British captured yesterday, is the next natural objective. But it was not quite certain when the British would open a drive on Tobruk or whether they would pass it up for the time being for bigger game—the Cirenaican capital across the desert.

Latter Massing Crack Troops on Border Ready To Get into Action

German Claim that Russia Will Permit Passage of Troops Through Bulgaria Doubled

(By The Associated Press)
SOFIA, Bulgaria, Jan. 6.—Diplomatic sources regarded joint Russian-Turkish resistance to any German push through Bulgaria as still likely tonight despite German reports that the U. S. S. R. has agreed to let the Nazis enter and take over Bulgarian territory.

The arrival here of a high official of the Soviet Commissariat of Foreign Affairs, these sources said, suggested that the reports—emanating from official German quarters—might only be wishful thinking.

Diplomatic reports also indicated that the Turks have concentrated several hundred thousand crack troops in Thrace, close to the Bulgarian frontier.

Russia Agrees to Plan

Reports given currency by official German quarters in Belgrade said Russia had acquiesced to a German move in Bulgaria on consideration that Germany not oppose Soviet policy either in Finland or Moldavia, the Rumanian area which adjoins Bessarabia, former Rumanian soil already annexed by Russia.

There was no confirmation of these reports, however, in Russian, Bulgarian, Rumanian or Turkish sources.

The Russian official, Alexander Mihalovich, came to Sofia with the official title of first counselor of the heavily-staffed Soviet legation here.

Word immediately went the rounds of the chancelleries that Mihalovich already has seen both Foreign Minister Ivan Popoff and King Boris, but this was not confirmed.

It was the Greek orthodox church's Christmas eve in Bulgaria and also the sixty-third anniversary of the "freeing" of Sofia from Turkish domination.

Honor Russian Dead

Bulgars in Sofia attended ceremonies honoring the Russian dead in the battle which won Sofia and turned them into a prayer that the Soviet would use its weight now to keep the Germans on the Rumanian side of the Danube.

Dispatches from Bulgarian towns on the river indicated that German troops on the other shore appeared to be settling down in their barracks rather than preparing to cross the ice-filled river.

The reports in German official quarters in Belgrade, however, said the Germans were unlikely to move into Bulgaria at any event until a heavy freeze or a thaw makes a river crossing easy.

Reaction to Roosevelt's Message On National Defense Is Varied

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6 (AP)—Here is some of the reaction expressed in the capital to President Roosevelt's address to Congress on national defense and aid to Britain:

Senator Austin of Vermont, acting Republican leader—The address will do much to crystallize the harmony and unity necessary to greater efforts to aid Britain.

Senator Wheeler (D-Mont)—It was intended to frighten the American people to a point that they would surrender their liberties and establish a wartime dictatorship in this country.

Senator Barkley of Kentucky, Democratic leader—It expressed the overwhelming determination of the American people.

Senator Capper (R-Kans)—It's another war speech. It makes me more convinced than ever Congress should exercise its full responsibility and do everything possible to keep us out of war.

Speaker Rayburn—It stated the viewpoint of the vast majority of the American people in masterly fashion. I think they are for every legitimate aid to the Democracies.

Senator Taft (R-Ohio)—The president is asking again for unlimited personal authority to loan abroad as much as he sees fit, without coming to Congress for appropriations or further authority, and confusing inextricably our already confused defense program with that of England.

SAN DIEGO, Calif., Jan. 6 (AP)—Rear Admiral William H. Standley, United States navy, retired, said today that factually, the United States was neutral "only because the Axis powers do not choose to consider us belligerents."

Speaking at a club luncheon, the former chief of naval operations, said that England was fighting "not only to survive but for the perpetuation of our way of life."

Her weakness lies in her life-lines, the shipping lanes by which she must obtain not only munitions and material to carry on the struggle, but food as well. These are seriously threatened; if they are cut, Britain must perish, and if the British fleet is destroyed or surrendered, the U. S. will be unable to cope with the combined navies of the totalitarian powers.

Legislators Face Toughest Session In State History

Ninety-Day Term May Be Back-Breaker as Well as Record-Smasher

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Jan. 6 (AP)—Maryland legislators, returning tomorrow night after a four-day recess, should find out definitely this week whether ninety-day term will be back-breaking as well as a record-smasher.

On the basis of last week's unprecedented performance—introduction of 112 bills on the second day of the session—and the distinctly unusual plan to bring in the governor's biennial budget tomorrow, the legislators may well expect to earn every dime of their $3 per diem salary.

If the program mapped out by the administration and legislative leaders is adhered to this session can be, from the standpoint of sheer physical labor, the hardest any Maryland assemblyman ever faced.

New Budget This Week

Chief interest this week naturally will be the new budget and its comparison with the new budget and its comparison with the $95,000,000 appropriations measure passed 1939. Sharing interest, however, will be the assembly's reaction to the administration's pressure for speed.

Since last Thursday's adjournment, members have had ample time to decide whether or not the new order of things will be accepted without a struggle. Particularly will they have made up their minds about the new legislative council.

The council slumped down 110 bills Thursday, producing only a minor debate about the legality of introducing measures under the council's name. This question was quickly adjusted.

During the next few days, however, sentiment should have crystallized with regard to the council's activities, which of course have been guided in many respects by the wishes of the administration. It is generally believed around the state house that, if legislative leaders once get the ball rolling—and they made a powerful start last week—the impetus will flatten slow-starting opposition without difficulty.

House May Delay Action

From a mechanical point of view, possibility of a legislative bottleneck developed in the House, which, because of its size, could not hope to streamline its committee organization as has been done in the Senate. In the latter house, most bills will be assigned to one of two committees—finance or judicial proceedings.

Thirteen senators will serve on the latter and fifteen on the powerful finance committee, with no duplication of membership, enabling both to meet at the same time. Of the fifty-five council bills introduced in the Senate last week, forty-nine were assigned to these two committees.

On the House side, were ways and means and judiciary committees handle major bills, a similar organization would be impossible with 120 delegates to handle. Council bills brought into the House were split up among six or seven committees, only nineteen going to judiciary and but seven to Ways and Means.

This left a possibility Senate machinery might function so rapidly that its bills would come rolling over to the House long before the latter body was able to send its own measures back—putting the Senate in the position of being all dressed up with no place to go and nothing to do.

Austin Says

Backs Roosevelt's Stand

Declaring that the debate over United States policy and the way should be considered closed, he said the re-election of President Roosevelt was an expression of the people's determination that the present attitude of their government in the world revolution should be maintained.

The real question now, he continued, is how to speed up the production of the national "workshop" to meet the needs of the British and their Allies as well as to supply American defense requirements.

As steps to that end, he suggested a longer working week, with extra pay for labor, and urged that all citizens curtail the use of luxuries to make room for greater military production.

Would Speed Production

By speeding up defense production, he said, the United States could give effective aid to Britain, Greece and China "without a single American soldier engaging in combat."

"The swift preparation already started in the United States," he added, assured these "victims of aggression, that the requirement for their support morally and materially will be fully met so far as this country is able to meet them."

In saying the re-election of Mr. Roosevelt should end debate over foreign policy, Austin commented that Wendell Willkie, the Republican presidential nominee, had expressed much the same views as the president.

"His supporters endorsed his stand," Austin continued. "Thus public opinion was unified, x x x"

WHERE ELEVEN NAVY AIRMEN LOST THEIR LIVES

Here is the wreckage of the huge naval transport plane which crashed into a mountainside forty-five miles east of San Diego, Cal., carrying eleven naval aviators, men and officers, to their instant death. Four of the victims had saved their lives only last week by bailing out of a foundering navy bomber. The ship was on its way to the San Diego naval base from Texas when it crashed into the mountain. Lower picture shows the plane just before it took off on its ill-fated trip.

ers, including Mrs. Roosevelt, Crown Prince Olav and Crown Princess Martha of Norway, who drove to the capitol with the chief executive. The crown princess was seated directly behind one of the broad structural steel supports, and peered around it to watch Mr. Roosevelt deliver his speech.

After a few preliminary paragraphs he swung emphatically into the main theme of his message that the "aggressors" were still on the march, the "Democratic Way" was under attack the world over, sixteen months of war had blotted out Democracy in "an appalling number of independent nations, great and small," and:

Our Safety Involved

"Therefore, x x x I find it unhelpfully necessary to report that the future and the safety of our country and of our Democracy are overwhelmingly involved in events far beyond our borders."

An Axis victory, he said, would mean Axis domination of four continents, with great population and resources than those of the United States. No generosity could be expected of a "dictator's peace," he continued, and an attack on the Americas was to be expected if the dictators won, and to speak of immunity from such an attack was "loose talk."

"As long as the aggressor nations maintain the offensive," he said, "they—not we—will choose the time and place and the method of their attack."

"That is why the future of all American republics is today in serious danger."

Quickly, then, he swung into an enunciation of three basic points of "national policy":

"First, by an impressive expression of the public will and without regard to partisanship, we are committed to all-inclusive national defense."

"Second, by an impressive expression of the public will and without regard to partisanship, we are committed to full support of all those resolute peoples, everywhere, who are resisting aggression and are thereby keeping war away from our hemisphere. By this support, we express our determination that the Democratic cause shall prevail; and we strengthen the defense and security of our own nation."

"Third, by an impressive expression of the public will and without regard to partisanship, we are committed to the proposition that principles of morality and considerations for our own security will never permit us to acquiesce in a peace dictated by aggressors and sponsored by appeasers. We know that enduring peace cannot be bought at the cost of other people's freedom."

Would Speed Up Defense

Defense production had shown much encouraging progress, he said, but he and his aides were still dissatisfied.

"The men in charge of the program represent the best in training, ability and patriotism," he said. "They are not satisfied with the progress thus far made. None of us will be satisfied until the job is done."

As he said this, William S. Knudsen, General Motors man borrowed to take charge of defense production, slowly nodded his head, and then joined in the applause which swept the chamber.

The president said the nation was behind schedule on airplane production and the effort was to catch up; ahead of schedule on warship production, and working to get even farther ahead.

"To change a whole nation from a basis of peacetime production of implements of peace to a basis of wartime production of implements of war is no small task," Mr. Roosevelt said.

Asserting that the time may be near when Great Britain and her Allies are unable to pay in cash for their war purchases here, the president said that the United States cannot "tell them they must surrender, merely because of present inability to pay for the weapons which we know they must have."

He went on to outline his lease-lend plan of getting material assistance to the British.

As he approached his conclusion, the president said the nations must look forward to a world founded "upon four essential human freedoms," and as he detailed them some wondered if, however vaguely, he was suggesting war aims for the British. They were:

Suggest War Aims

"The first is freedom of speech and expression—everywhere in the world."

"The second is freedom of every person to worship God in his own way—everywhere in the world."

"The third is freedom from want—which translated into world terms, means economic understandings which will secure to every nation a healthy peace time life for its inhabitants—everywhere in the world."

"The fourth is freedom from fear—world terms, means a worldwide reduction of armaments to such a point and in such a thorough fashion that no nation will be in a position to commit an act of physical aggression against any neighbor—anywhere in the world."

INTERPRETING THE WAR NEWS

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

Events in Africa, in the Balkans and in the United States are combining to force Germany's hand in her war with Britain.

The prime asset of Nazi military strategy, the initiative, is being wrested from her. She must soon strike east or west in a supreme effort to stem the war tide setting now heavily against the Berlin-Rome Axis.

British capture of Bardia in the Libyan desert was clearly forecast before it came. The circumstances of the victory, however, point toward a far-reaching collapse of Italian morale, civilian as well as military, unless Germany finds means to avert it quickly.

Capture of tens of thousands of Italians at Bardia duplicates what happened at Sidi Barrani. It follows the utter failure of the Italian army sent to invade Greece and now desperately struggling to escape an even greater catastrophe in Albania.

The British are already investing Tobruk, eighty miles deeper into Libya than Bardia. It is doubtful that the Italian commander, Marshal Graziani, has much more than half his original numerical strength of 250,000 effectives available. He has lost 80,000 or more men, killed, wounded or captured, and irreparable fighting equipment and stores. The morale of his beaten army must be low. Its prime shock units have been destroyed or captured.

Suez Canal Safe

The Italian threat in Africa to British control of the Suez Canal and the eastern Mediterranean has been eliminated. It would take incredible Nazi victories in a Balkan march eastward to renew it. Even a German thrust through Bulgaria to aid Italy in Albania would face the same winter weather difficulties that have slowed the Greeks' efforts to complete the destruction of their Fascist foes there.

Nor can German commanders fail to consider the probable effect of new Italian defeats in Libya on Italian army morale in Albania and in East Africa, where British naval and air forces are beginning to take the initiative. Word of what has happened in Egypt and Libya is certain to sift through Italian ranks.

There are ample indications that Russia has been powerfully impressed by British and Greek successes. Turkey is clearly priming for action if Germany makes a move that threatens Turkish interests.

Balkan Situation Critical

The reported movement of German air or other forces into Italy via Brenner Pass indicates the critical nature of the Balkan situation in Berlin's eyes. If those forces went to the aid of Italy by any other route the result might be a Balkan war—a thing Germany has thus far exerted every effort to avoid.

Yet Italy's plight is desperate. If Germany is to bolster her faltering Axis partner she must soon move regardless of risks. Nor can Berlin fail to catch the implications of President Roosevelt's address to Congress calling on a war footing to aid Britain or any other nation resisting Axis aggression, military or political.

More optimistic circles believe, however, that the United States will do "whatever is necessary" to achieve a British victory, even if it means ultimate entry into the war.

Court Approves Black Tom Award Of $50,000,000

Decides against Germany in Important World War Case Decision

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6 (AP)—The Supreme Court today unanimously upheld the validity of $50,000,000 in damage awards assessed against Germany as a result of the Black Tom and Kingsland, N. J., explosions.

The explosions occurred before the United States entered the World war, and a German-American Mixed Claims Commission which conducted a long inquiry made the awards to various American claimants.

Government officials expressed the opinion that the public wrote the last chapter in the litigation which had been before an international tribunal since 1927.

$24,000,000 Available

The decision means that approximately $24,000,000 plus interest of $2,000,000 held in the treasury as a German special deposit account will soon be turned over to the Lehigh Valley Railroad, the Bethlehem Steel Company, the agency of the Canadian Car and Foundry Company, and insurance underwriters who lost heavily as a result of the explosions at Black Tom, the railroad's Jersey terminal, and at the munitions assembly plant at Kingsland.

All ammunition destroyed was destined for the Allies in the World war.

The Supreme Court's decision, prepared by Chief Justice Hughes, ruled that Congress had the "constitutional authority" to give the secretary of state the power to consider and pass upon the validity of awards made by the German-American Mixed Claims Commission.

Challenge Dismissed

In so ruling, the court dismissed the challenge of the awards brought by the Z and F Assets Realization Corporation and the American-Hawaiian Steamship Company. They contended they held prior claims of $2,600,000 and that the commission's $50,000,000 awards were invalid because Dr. Victor L. F. H. Huecking, the German commissioner, had withdrawn from the final deliberations.

The court said, however, that under the settlement of war claims act of 1928 a certificate from the secretary of state for the purpose of paying the claims "must be deemed to be conclusive."

In a concurring opinion, Justice Brandeis and Douglas agreed that the courts were without power to consider the subject matter at all, and asserted that the questions raised "are constitutionally committed exclusively to the legislative and executive departments."

Justice Roberts, who served as umpire of the commission, did not participate in the Supreme Court's consideration of the litigation.

Canada Hopes To Get U. S. into War

Some Think Roosevelt's Speech Does Not Go Far Enough

OTTAWA, Jan. 6 (AP)—Prime Minister Mackenzie King and most of his cabinet listened intently to President Roosevelt's broadcast message to Congress today but there was no official comment.

It was obvious, however, that of official circles were pleased by the president's declaration that United States' policy was one of more and more aid to Britain and her Allies.

Many Canadians feel that the "short of war" formula is not enough.

More optimistic circles believe, however, that the United States will do "whatever is necessary" to achieve a British victory, even if it means ultimate entry into the war.

it even clearer than ever that the choice of liberty and safety does not rest with us, but with the forces of aggression which are out to dominate the world.

Rep. Short (R-Mo)—If there was ever any doubt as to his intentions, it is now dissipated. It is clear as sunlight he is getting us into war.

Rep. Wadsworth (R-NY)—It was an excellent address. I am in general accord with the foreign policy laid down in it.

Rep. Youngdahl (R-Minn)—As for using the sovereignty of government to compel our citizens to agree to all of the president's program—that sounds like the very totalitarianism against which we are arming.

William S. Knudsen, a director of the National Defense Commission—It hit the nail on the head.

Rep. Thomas (R-NJ)—A left-handed declaration of war. America's die is now cast. It means fight.

Rep. Sutphin (D-NJ)—If any citizen had entertained any doubt of the grave importance of maximum defense preparation, the president's message should clear that up.

Rep. Rehmann (Prog-Wis)—If we carry out all he recommended I'm afraid we're in the war. I think he went too far.

Rep. Treadway (R-Mass)—On the whole I feel justified in saying that it probably represents the feeling of the vast majority of American citizens.

Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich)—It was a strong plea for peace through war-by-proxy.

Senator Glass (D-Va)—A fine speech. It couldn't be better.

Rep. Van Zandt (R-Pa)—There is nothing left for the president to say except to request from Congress a declaration of war.

German Bombers Attack London in 3 Daylight Raids

Royal Airforce Engages Enemy in Machine Gun Battles

LONDON, Jan. 6—Light German fighter-bombers attacked London three times today—the first time in weeks that the capital has undergone more than one daylight alarm—and dropped bombs on east Anglia and southeastern points.

The sound of machine-gun fire high above London indicated the Royal Air Force clashed with the Germans. The first alarm came during the rush hour and by mid-afternoon the sirens had wailed three alerts.

Until yesterday, when one daylight alarm was sounded, it had been two weeks since London had had a daylight alarm.

Several hours of darkness passed without an alarm in London today. This may have been due to a heavy snowstorm over the strait of Dover. Antiaircraft fire was reported to have driven a raider from a northeast coast town.

One British authority pointed out that fighter bombers such as used in today's raids operate from bases much nearer Britain than the night-raiding heavy bombers. It was added that their long inactivity might be explained by bad weather over northern France, where British aircraft which held those French fields last winter were grounded by snow and ice for months.

The week's events will begin with a sermon to graduates in the chapel at 9:45 a. m., Feb. 2. That afternoon a concert will be given by the Coolidge quartet in Mahan Hall.

Presentation of athletic and extracurricular awards and the superintendent's reception to the first class and their families will take place in Dahlgren Hall, Feb. 4.

The University of Maryland and navy basketball squads will meet the afternoon of Feb. 5, with the "N" dance for the first class only in Hubbard Hall and the first class ball in Memorial Hall.

Graduation rehearsal will be held Feb. 6, and a farewell ball for all classes is scheduled for that night. Graduation exercises will be held in Dahlgren Hall at 11 a. m., Feb. 7.

Employer Must Sign Agreement Made with Union

Supreme Court Announces Decision in Wagner Act Controversy

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6 (AP)—Supreme Court held today that Wagner Act requires an employer to sign a written contract with union when a collective bargaining agreement has been reached, although the law does not say so many words.

The decision on this point, which has been in controversy ever since the law was enacted, was given a suit by the H. J. Heinz Company of Pittsburgh contesting the authority of the labor board to require it to sign a contract with a union of the AFL Canning and Packers Workers Union.

The company had agreed to the union's terms after bargaining, but contended that it met the requirements of the law by posting notices to the effect on the bargaining boards.

Decision Is Unanimous

But the opinion by Justice Stone from which there was no dissent, asserted categorically that the company's "refusal to sign was a refusal to bargain collectively and unfair labor practice" and that "the board's order requiring the employer to sign a written contract embodying agreed terms authorized by the section of the act which empowers the board to make orders to remedy unfair practices."

The decision noted that the enactment of the Wagner Act had been the settled practice of administrative agencies dealing with labor relations to treat the signing of a written contract embodying a wage and hour agreement as the final step in the bargaining process.

Congress, by incorporating a collective bargaining requirement in the Wagner Act, "included as part of it the signed agreement long recognized x x x as the final step in the bargaining process," Stone said.

Must Sign Agreement

"It is true," the opinion continued, "that the x x x act, while requiring the employer to bargain collectively, does not compel him to enter into an agreement. But it does not follow x x x that, having reached an agreement, he can refuse to sign it x x x."

"A business man who entered into negotiations with another under an agreement having numerous provisions, with the reservation that would not reduce it to writing, or sign it, could hardly be thought to have bargained in good faith."

"This is even more so in the case of an employer who, by his refusal to honor, with his signature, the agreement which he has made with a labor organization, discredits the organization, impairs the bargaining process and tends to frustrate the aim of the statute to secure industrial peace through collective bargaining."

Upholds Labor Board

The Heinz case and another decided today involving the Link-Belt Company of Chicago also upheld labor board contentions that alleged anti-union activity by foremen and other supervisory employees constituted unfair labor practices for which the companies were responsible even though it was shown that they sanctioned the activity.

In the Link-Belt case the Supreme Court noted that a Circuit Court of Appeals, which refused to enforce part of a board order, held that the employees acted with complete freedom in joining an independent union which the board denounced as company-dominated.

"But we are of the opinion that the Court of Appeals, in reaching that conclusion, substituted its judgment—a power which has been denied it by the Congress," said the opinion by Justice Douglas free which again there was no dissent. Congress entrusted the board, and the courts, with the power to draw inferences from the facts."

Cold Weather in Most of Nation

[By The Associated Press] An unusual coldness continued to overlie most of the nation (Monday) night.

Only some of the far reaches of the country were spared freezing weather, biting winds and snow temperatures as low as twenty below normal were felt in many regions.

U. S. weather bureau forecasters in Chicago said it was most uncommon to have subnormal temperatures over the nation generally at the same time.

Despite the wide swath cut by the current cold wave and the stress inflicted in several areas, relatively few deaths attributable to the severe weather were reported. A 21-year-old woman was burned to death and four members of her family were injured in a West Virginia farmhouse fire Sunday. Fewer than a dozen weather casualties were reported elsewhere in the land.

The nation's coldest spot Monday was Minot, N. D., with a minimum of -15.

Temperatures in the middle west moderated gradually, but forecasters said a light snow would spread from the west into Wisconsin, Illinois and Indiana, and by Tuesday morning would cover the Great Lakes section and the bulk of the Ohio river valley.

Wants Introduction

Dear Miss Fairfax:
There's a young lady whom I see every day. I'm in love with her really, but she doesn't know it because I haven't met her, or rather, been introduced to her. I'm 36 years old and would like you to tell me how I can go about getting this introduction. She surely must know that I am interested by the way I look at her.

JIM.

Isn't there some mutual friend who will introduce you to the young lady? That should be easy, as you say you see her almost every day. Who are her friends? Can't you become acquainted with them and ask them to present you to her? Fiction writers tell of many ingenious devices by which people who are unacquainted manage to meet—but "nice" girls, as I'm sure this one is, insist on being introduced properly.

Sorry and Wants Him Back

Dear Miss Fairfax:
Richard, my boy friend, told me that he loved me whenever we were together. I believed him. My friends and my family liked him, and I was so happy thinking that it would be like that forever. He asked me to wait for him until he could save enough money for our marriage. I agreed, because we were still young—19 and 21.

Now something terrible has happened. Two months ago an old schoolmate of mine called and asked me to go to a movie. I accepted the invitation, as he was to be in town only for a couple of days. I excused myself to Richard, saying I was going to a party for girls only. But here's the time he caught up with me. Richard was at the movie and saw me. He came over a day or two afterward and told me I was deceitful and left without giving me a chance to explain. I haven't seen him since.

I often cry myself to sleep because I want Richard back. My brother says I should have plenty of time to meet other boys and that I should forget. But as my father is very strict, I don't have much chance to go out where I'll meet other boys.

Now is the Time to Beware of Contagious Colds!

At a treacherous time like this, with contagious colds all around you, what you do today may save you and your family a lot of sickness, worry and trouble later.

Follow these simple rules of health: Live normally. Avoid excesses. Eat simple food. Drink plenty of water. Keep elimination regular. Take some exercise daily—preferably outdoors. Get plenty of rest and sleep.

Then use these two time-tested treatments when needed.

At the first sniffle, sneeze or sign of nasal irritation, put a few drops of Vicks VapoRub on each nostril right away. This helps to prevent many colds from developing, because VapoRub is expressly designed to help Nature's own defenses against colds. (If a head cold causes stuffiness, you'll find that a few drops of VapoRub helps clear the clogging mucus and makes breathing freer and easier.)

Both VapoRub and VapoRub have been tested through years of use in millions of homes. When you use these two medicines you are not experimenting, you are not taking needless chances. Remember: If the condition of the cold fails to respond quickly to treatment—or if more serious trouble is indicated—call your family physician right away. In the meantime be prepared! Get a bottle of Vicks VapoRub today—and have them handy, ready to use.

North Star, Veteran U. S. Polar Ship, Heads Southward for Byrd Expedition

U. S. motorship North Star

Map shows 21,000-mile route of the North Star to the Byrd base

By WILLIAM A. BAKER, JR.
Central Press Correspondent

SEATTLE, Jan. 6.—From the top of the world to Little America away "down under," with only a brief layover here, is the log of the United States motorship North Star en route from this port to the Antarctic to bring back men, dogs and equipment of the Byrd expedition.

We ought to be back in Seattle by April 15," Lieutenant Commander Isak Lystad, naval reserve officer and master of the North Star, predicted when he took his ship out of Puget sound. The distance from Seattle to West Base (Little America) is 17,000 miles, and to East Base 21,000.

The North Star, regularly operated by the bureau of Indian affairs, department of the interior, returned recently from Point Barrow, Alaska, to which she makes a voyage every summer with supplies for a government hospital and schools on the Arctic coast.

Farthest North, South

"It is the only vessel that has been as far north and as far south as a ship can go—all in the same year," observed Commander Lystad, who has been on the North Star since 1932. He was commanding officer when the vessel transported men and supplies to the Byrd expedition a year ago, sailing from Boston, Nov. 16.

On this year's voyage out the North Star is scheduled to call at Honolulu, Suva, Fiji islands and at Dunedin, New Zealand. Then, after Dunedin's dock lights drop astern, she will plow the polar seas for 2,000 miles before her fathometer picks up the coast of the Antarctic continent.

"We should arrive at West Base about Jan. 20," Commander Lystad said. "We will get 30 men there. We hope to reach East Base about the last of February, but it is of course impossible to say exactly when we shall arrive. We are to get 28 men at West Base.

"We are bringing all the dogs back, also, but I don't know how many there are now. This ship took 80 dogs down last year, and the U. S. S. Bear had 80. The Bear left Annapolis several weeks ago and is now on her way down again.

Lumber for Docks

The North Star is not taking supplies or provisions for continued maintenance of the Antarctic bases; she is stocked to meet the needs of the men only on the voyage home. Fresh fruit, meat and vegetables will be loaded in New Zealand. The cargo includes a quantity of lumber because there are no docks in Antarctic ports.

"We use these long planks in loading and unloading supplies," Commander Lystad explained. "The ice is sometimes all broken up where we bring the ship in for loading, and there are crevasses in the ice that have to be bridged."

"I've been told that we're going to leave the snow cruiser at West Base. They intend to take the machinery out of it, and possibly the tires. They'll leave the shell. We'll take aboard a small plane at West Base, too, but will leave the larger ship at each base, with a spare motor. Why, I don't know now."

The supply ship is expected to put into West Base without great difficulty unless the weather is particularly bad. But she will have to feel her way around to East Base through almost uncharted rock-strewn waters, making frequent soundings with fathometer and lead.

"Our progress down there necessarily will be quite slow at times," the ship's master said. "We can't

Most Colds Are Caught Person To Person

Scientists Are Still Confused as to What Cold Really Is

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

Science is learning a little more every year about colds, but advance is hampered by a number of things. There is great confusion, for one thing, as to what a cold is. Somebody says, "I caught cold in the fall and it lasted on and off all winter." What he really had was a series of flare-ups of a sinus infection.

Then there are lots of people who tell you how they got over a cold in a day. Well, by all standards known, that is not a real "cold." Those who say that must belong to the group who are sensitive to some protein which produces a temporary swelling and irritation in the nose. And the normal period of time to get over such a sensitization is twenty-four hours.

A Filterable Virus

Epidemiologists have learned a good deal about real, sure enough colds, however. The infection is due to a filterable virus—a germ too small to be seen under the microscope. It has not been certainly identified yet, no more than any of the filterable viruses, but its habits are known. It is transmitted readily by fairly direct contact, from person to person. Colds, in fact, are very catching. The zone of transmission is not simply the distance of spread of the direct spray of a sneeze or cough, but the infecting agent may spread in a radiating zone for a considerable distance within the confines of a building, such as a theatre or schoolroom.

The incubation period is short—twenty-four to thirty-six hours. When you catch a cold you can give it to others only for a short time—during the early stages. The most infectious period is the first day.

Three or four days after the beginning of symptoms, you are no longer a source of danger, though you may go on having sore throat or running nose for several days.

An epidemic that appeared under unusual circumstances at Northwest River, Labrador, has been studied and illustrates this. The colony of 167 persons was cut off from communication from the outside by ice and snow. A dogteam driver went off a town eighty miles away for the Christmas mail; there was a severe epidemic of respiratory infection raging there and he promptly loaded his sled and started back. Twenty-four hours later, half a day's journey from home, he became very ill but strapped himself on the sled and the dogs took him home. Within twenty-four hours after he got there nearly everyone in the village came down with some form of upper respiratory tract infection.

A cold itself lasts only four or five days and it is of little consequence. But it prepares the mucous membranes to secondary infection, which may be more troublesome. A

Council Supports Bill To Prevent Sale of Fireworks

Ask Legislature To Authorize City To Issue $900,000 in Bonds

The mayor and city council yesterday approved a resolution calling upon Allegheny county's delegation to the Maryland General Assembly to give approval to the model law on possession and use of fireworks.

While Cumberland has banned the use of fireworks since 1939 the resolution said that a state-wide law will make local enforcement easier.

A bill calling upon the legislature to authorize the city to issue $900,000 in "Consolidated General Improvement Bonds" has been prepared, the council announced. The repeal of acts authorizing the sale of bonds for an overhead bridge, flood protection and fire hose amounting to $900,000 is called for in other bills.

Bonds will be issued in denominations of $1,000 and will pay not more than four per cent interest. It was indicated that Charles Z. Heskett, city attorney, will take the bills to Annapolis for presentation to the county delegation.

Claiming that runways at the airport are muddy and this condition may cause some flier to wreck, Louis T. Helman, chairman of the Municipal Airport Commission, asked the council to place cinders on the runways. The council took this matter under advisement.

An ordinance compelling persons obtaining occupational tax metal tags to display them on a vehicle where they can be seen was approved.

The health department announced that starting today preventive pneumonia treatment for Cumberland division employees of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad will be given to all who want to take it. The department also reported nineteen cases of scarlet fever in the city in 1940 as compared to seventy-six the previous year.

At the request of the Keating Memorial Day Nursery a fire alarm will be installed in the building at a cost of $240.

The Salvation Army was voted $154 for transient work and a petition of protest from Henderson avenue residents against the piling of lumber by the Buchanan Lumber Company was ordered filed.

Police Boys' Club Plans To Sponsor Fistic Show Here

Directors of the Cumberland Police Boys' Club met last evening at the Central Y. M. C. A. and decided to sponsor an amateur boxing show either Friday, February 7 or Friday, February 14 at the State armory. Harry Nelson is chairman of the boxing committee.

A committee composed of G. W. Ham Bibby, W. Russell Brewer and Henry W. Price was appointed to work out ways and means for re-composing three local police department officers for the time they spend in directing classes of the club.

RED CROSS RAISES $18,595 IN TWO CAMPAIGNS HERE

Norman H. Davis, chairman of the American Red Cross, has sent a letter of congratulation to officials of Allegheny County Chapter, lauding them for the great results achieved during the year of 1940.

Records at the local office for the past year show that in the two campaigns conducted by Allegheny County Chapter citizens of Allegheny county and Ridgely, W. Va., contributed a total of $18,595.55.

In the War relief campaign a total of $10,748.04 was received. Fifteen per cent of $1,499.40 remained here and $9,248.64 was forwarded to national headquarters in Washington.

The annual Roll Call receipts amounted to $7,847.51, of which $4,738.38 remained in the county and $3,118.57 went to Washington.

Mrs. George Henderson was Roll Call chairman, also was chapter chairman prior to her resignation. Mrs. Lee W. Withers is present chapter chairman.

Army Private Fined $5 for Failing to Keep To Right of Highway

A private in the United States Army, William B. Decker, of 2115 C street, N. W., Washington, D. C., was fined $5 and costs in trial magistrates' court yesterday on a charge of failing to keep to the right-center of the highway. He was found not guilty of a reckless driving charge.

Decker was arrested Saturday night after his car sideswiped another machine on the Baltimore pike, six miles east of Cumberland.

Four other soldiers, all of Washington, were in the machine with Decker and one of them was treated at Allegheny hospital for minor lacerations.

Occupants of the other car, driven by Adam Teets, of Flintstone, were not injured. William E. Hopkins, state policeman, investigated the accident.

them someone else would take them." At this point he consulted with Attorney General William C. Walsh and then called William C. McDermott, president of the Cosmopolitan Club and an employee of the State Internal Revenue Department, to the rostrum.

To Have Combined Dinner

Mr. Bruce then announced that there would be a combined Jackson Day-Victory Dinner sponsored by the Cosmopolitan Club, Saturday, January 25 and that Governor O'Connor, United States Senators Millard E. Tydings and George L. Radcliffe, Representative W. D. Byrd, National Committeeman W. Preston Lane, and Attorney General Walsh would be there. He said that "after listening to these speakers the workers would probably be encouraged in their efforts to have Republicans change their affiliations to Democrats."

Attorney General Walsh followed Mr. Bruce and further explained the aim of the party to wipe out its financial deficit of long standing, telling how at one time it was cut in half by a certain central committee of the county. None of the speakers seemed to know just where or how the bill became burdened on the party.

Walsh detailed further the increase in Democratic book registrations in the counties of the Sixth district, and explained that this is a most propitious time to have voters change their affiliations, what with the national and state administration in the control of the Democrats. He went on to encourage the workers to have voters register as Democrats and declared that if the Republican book majority can be cut 2800 to 1500, the Democrats can most assuredly elect some candidates to county offices in the next election, two years from now.

To Assess Jobholders

Elaborating on the plan to assess each federal, state, county and city jobholder in the party about three per cent of each's annual salary, Walsh further explained that under this plan as announced by Mr. Bruce, the party's deficit soon could be wiped out. There are between forty and fifty office holders in this category, he said.

Walsh also mentioned that the celebrities mentioned were invited to attend the dinner sponsored by the club.

Matthew J. Mullaney, treasurer, told of the actual amount of the note on which members of the committee are the endorsers. It is $890, Mr. Mullaney declared.

He told of his difficulties in raising the interest on it when due and told how it was planned to assess the office-holders during the past campaign to raise money. This was abandoned at the time and is to be tried now to clear the party of its long-standing debt.

James A. Dundon, president Local 1874, Celanese Textile Workers, was the next speaker. He told of his work in the past campaign, how many could be won to the Democratic party among the unregistered workers of the Celanese plant, and advised that there was a fertile field for the party workers in their drive for Democrats.

Would Organize Women

William Grove, city clerk, a member of the state board of barbers, was introduced, and as an A. P. of L. member, said he wanted to shake the hand of "Jimmy" Dundon of the CIO. They shook hands.

Mrs. Minnie Edmonds, Bowling Green, named committeewoman for the Sixth Congressional district of Women's Democratic Clubs, called on the men present to have their "wives, sweethearts and sisters" join in the activities of the women's party clubs and told of her desire to organize women's clubs in towns in the county.

There were no refreshments at the club after the meeting. It was said that a change in leadership at the Democratic headquarters is taking place.

Harry Jeffra Whips Billy Speary

BALTIMORE, Jan. 6 (AP)—Harry Jeffra, recognized in Maryland as the featherweight champion, won a unanimous 12-round decision tonight over Billy Speary of Nanticoke, Pa.

Three times he had the Pennsylvanian on the canvas for nine counts, but the latter rallied each time and the champion had his hands full all evening.

It was the first defeat in the professional ring for Speary who had won 12 straight fights before tonight's battle.

Speary went down in the fourth, fifth and twelfth rounds. Although he defeated Jeffra in a fight last November in Wilkesbarre, Speary's punches lacked power tonight and he never had his man near a knockdown.

Jeffra, ordinarily a right-handed puncher, followed instructions and shifted to his left to good effect, rocking Speary repeatedly with a short, choppy left hook to the head. It was a swinging right that sent Speary down for the first time, however. A left uppercut set him down in the fifth and another did the trick in the twelfth.

Jeffra had his man on the verge of a knockout in the fifth, but the courageous Speary, bobbing and weaving while still too groggy to throw a punch, out-manuevered the champion and came back to win the eighth, ninth and tenth rounds.

Jeffra weighed 127½ and Speary 127. It was a non-title bout.

LA VALE MAN OPENS NEWSSTAND AND STORE IN THE COURT HOUSE

A 31 year old LaVale man yesterday stocked his "store" and went into business in the corridor of the court house as the January term of court got under way.

The business man is Roland Leach, a former pupil at the Maryland School of the Blind, Baltimore, who has opened an attractive concession stand where he will sell newspapers, magazines, candy, tobacco, etc.

The stand was made possible by the bill sponsored by Charles M. See, members of the House of Delegates from Allegheny county authorizing such stands in state, county and municipal buildings. As far as is known, Mr. See's bill passed in 1939 is the first such state legislation in the United States.

Leach's concession stand was constructed and installed by the Maryland workshop of the School of the Blind.

Court house attaches and "callers" yesterday wished Leach success in his business venture.

Gilbert and Sullivan Group Will Present "The Bohemian Girl"

Rehearsals of Balfe's opera, "The Bohemian Girl," were resumed last night at 8 o'clock in Girl Scout headquarters on Green street by the Gilbert and Sullivan group. Jack Platt is directing the singing and Lewyn F. Davis the acting.

The opera will be presented early in February.

The group has sung all the standard Gilbert and Sullivan repertoire and this fact explains the presentation of "The Bohemian Girl," a product of the Irish composer Balfe.

Mrs. Helen Warring Martin, founder of the group who now resides in Harrisburg, Pa., will be here for a rehearsal within the next two weeks.

Lieut. A. W. Miller, of Cumberland, was among ninety junior officers attached to the Twenty-Ninth Division of the National Guard who arrived at Fort George G. Meade last night to attend a premobilization school.

The men, from Maryland, the District of Columbia, and Virginia, will be trained as instructors in handling rifles, automatic rifles, machine guns, mortars and anti-tank guns. They will spend a certain period daily in drilling and calisthenics.

The training program was scheduled to officially open last night with an address by Major General Milton A. Reckord, division commander. Major William E. Warfield, of the First Infantry, will be in charge of the school.

THE SMOKE'S THE THING!

THE SMOKE OF SLOWER-BURNING CAMELS GIVES YOU

EXTRA MILDNESS, EXTRA COOLNESS, EXTRA FLAVOR

AND—

28% LESS NICOTINE

than the average of the 4 other largest-selling brands tested—less than any of them—according to independent laboratory tests of the smoke itself

YES, the smoke's the thing! After all, you don't get anything from a cigarette until you've lighted it... until it's burning. And there is the secret of an advantage Camel smokers have enjoyed for years. For Camel's costlier tobaccos are slower-burning.

Slower-burning for more coolness and mildness—for Camels are free from the excess heat and irritating qualities of too-fast burning. Slower-burning for more flavor because slow burning preserves tobacco flavor and fragrance.

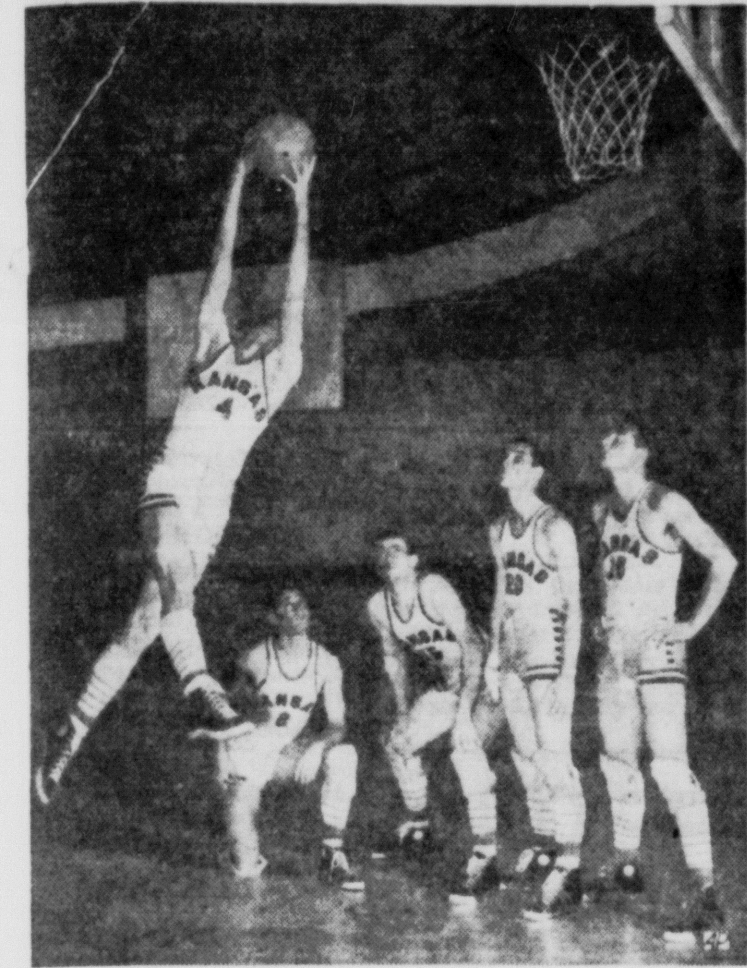

Now Science confirms still another advantage—Camel's slower burning means less nicotine in the smoke—less than any of the four other largest-selling brands tested... 28% less than the average!

Yes, when you measure the pleasure of a cigarette... the smoke's the thing. Make Camels your steady smoke and enjoy all the advantages that only Camel's slower burning... costlier tobaccos can give. There's even an economy advantage

F.D.R. TALKS TO THE NATION—In a gravely-worded "fireside chat" that may become historic because of the scope of speech, frankness of its language, F.D.R.'s censure of dictators and "appeasers," his praise of Britain, and the size of the listening audience, President Roosevelt broadcast to the nation Dec. 29. Assorted Specialties Have Good Day in Active
Market

By FREDERICK GARDNER
NEW YORK, Jan. 6 (AP)—Selected stocks moved up in today's market for the third session in a row but the advance was without a great deal of vigor.

Steels in front most of the day, slipped at the last, and early gains for other favorites were reduced or canceled in some instances at the close. Strength was displayed by assorted specialties.

There were a few lively intervals and transfers that totaled 720,800 shares compared with 506,040 last Friday.

Pupils and Citizens Hail Opening of New School

Half-Million Dollar Beall High Structure Called 'Christmas Gift'

FROSTBURG, Jan. 6.—Frostburg's new half-million dollar high school opened this morning with 967 pupils and thirty-three teachers in attendance.

The occasion, a happy and delightful affair, will undoubtedly be a memorable one, at least for those whose privilege it was to be present. While the official dedication of the new building will be held later, the thrill of seeing the interior of the magnificent new structure for the first time by nearly every young high school pupil in this section cannot again be duplicated.

As the pupils entered the building after arrival on foot and by buses, they were met in the main lobby by Principal Arthur W. Taylor and a group of teachers who directed them to the proper class rooms, where home room teachers were on hand to give instruction necessary so that everybody could more readily acquaint themselves with their new surroundings. Each pupil was also presented with a printed greeting from the Board of Education of Allegany County.

Pupils Get Lockers

A locker tag was then given each pupil, with the number and combination of the locker and the name of a fellow student with whom the locker was to be shared. Before beginning the schedule arranged for the opening day, pupils were assigned the task of going into the corridors where the lockers are located in long rows along the walls to learn to work the combinations.

Grouped in twos and threes down the long corridors, apparently enjoying the experience, they soon solved the riddle of working the combinations. In some cases where the combinations were difficult, school officials, including County Superintendent C. L. Kopp lent a helping hand.

The locker problem solved, the students were lined up for the first assembly period and marched to the beautiful auditorium in perfect order. The auditorium, on the east wing of the building, has a seating capacity of 1013, and with 967 pupils in attendance, every seat, with the exception of a few in the gallery, was occupied.

Gunter Master of Ceremonies

The students were greeted by Principal Taylor whose opening remarks were "Believe it or not, we are in the auditorium of the new Beall high school." After giving instructions about the use of the building, Mr. Taylor presented William A. Gunter, president of the Board of Education, who served as master of ceremonies.

In opening his address, which was replete with humor concerning his own school days as a pupil of the old Beall high school, Mr. Gunter remarked "today may be only January 6 to most of those in this audience, but to me it is Christmas morning so far as this school is concerned." He added that he got up earlier than usual so as to be on hand to have a part in the presentation of Allegany county's Christmas gift of a magnificent high school to the boys and girls of Frostburg and surrounding towns.

Other speakers were Superintendent Kopp, Horace P. Whitworth, associate member of the school board; Mayor Olin Gunneth and G. Kear Hosken, representing the trustees of the new school; S. W. Green, representing the board of county commissioners; and Rudolph Nickel, Frostburg newspaper man.

Caution Is Urged

The speakers representing the school board, the county and the trustees of the school stressed the fact that Frostburg and surrounding towns, after two years of eager anticipation now have a school comparable to the best in the country and urged the pupils to do their part in making the institution a credit to the citizens who provided the funds to make the institution possible. The pupils were also urged to exercise caution on their way to and from school so as to avoid accidents.

Following the talks Contractor Joseph J. Bendik, Uniontown, Pa., contractor who built the school, and R. Hoyt Hitchens, Frostburg, who designed it, were called to the stage by Mr. Gunter as they walked up the stairs, they were given a tremendous ovation.

Pupils Happy

The pupils were in a happy frame of mind and gave all the speakers generous applause. The fine and cordial spirit prevailing at the first assembly and the affable manner in which teachers received visitors were noteworthy features of the opening day.

According to many parents, their children could hardly sleep last night or wait for the advertised school hour this morning due to their eagerness to be on hand bright and early for the opening day of the new high school.

One of the announcements made by Principal Taylor in his address was that the new school gymnasium would not be used this year for basketball. Because of the difficulty of entering the unfinished grounds and the lack of proper parking space, all games of the 1941 basketball schedule (Continued on Page 12, Col. 2)

Ladies Auxiliary Of Fire Company Plans Celebration

Lonaconing Group To Install Officers At Anniversary Meeting

LONACONING, Jan. 6.—Following a short business meeting tomorrow (Tuesday) night at 7:30 o'clock, when newly-elected officers will take office, the Ladies Auxiliary of Goodwill Fire Company No. 1 will celebrate its fifth anniversary in the firemen's hall, Advocate avenue.

The organization was formed in 1935 to assist the firemen in social events. At the beginning, more than forty women of the community were members, mostly made up of wives and sisters of the membership of the Fire company. Today, ninety-five women are members. During the five years of existence the organization has been of great assistance to the firemen.

The fifth anniversary celebration will be featured by the exchange of gifts by the members. During the past holidays the organization did not meet, and tomorrow's meeting will be the holiday party. A program of musical numbers has been arranged, which will be followed by dancing and refreshments.

Miss Ollie Eichhorn, chairman of the committee in charge, is being assisted by Mrs. William Henry and Mrs. John Smith.

Accident Band May Make New Year's Eve Serenade An Annual Event

ACCIDENT, Jan. 6.—The Accident Concert Band is considering making its New Year's Eve "serenade" an annual event because of the enthusiastic response its first one drew last week, according to Luther Keller, president.

In a novel celebration, the band presented short concerts at many business places and private homes in the Accident, Grantsville and Friendsville communities, closing by extending best wishes for a happy new year.

The celebration ended in Accident with a New Year's concert and a lunch furnished through the courtesy of a local garage.

1,200 W. Va. Guardsmen Enter Active Service

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Jan. 6 (AP)—Approximately 1,200 West Virginia National Guardsmen became Uncle Sam's soldiers last midnight, and about half of them started taking physical examinations today preparatory to beginning a year of active service.

Brig. Gen. William L. Horner, adjutant general of the state Guard, said the transfer of the Two Hundred and First Infantry regiment officially became effective last midnight.

Two days of examinations were started today for 230 men at Morgantown, 150 at Fairmont, 123 at Salem and 100 at Martinsburg. Most of them will be quartered in armories or nearby until they are sent to Fort Benjamin Harrison, Ind., this week.

Fire Department Plans Carnival At Moorefield

Volunteers Discuss Plans for Summer Affair, Install Officers

MOOREFIELD, W. Va., Jan. 6.—The Moorefield Volunteer Fire company will sponsor a celebration during the coming summer. It was decided at the first meeting of the new year. The new officers elected in December formally took office, with C. R. Powers as new president of the organization.

Bryan Lambert, John W. Fisher, Reginald Saville and Arno Fiddle were appointed to investigate and receive bids for shows during the proposed celebration.

The volunteer company voted to continue the serving of fire extinguishers in the business houses in Moorefield and to continue as sales agents for fire extinguishers, for trucks and homes. Chairman of the committee, appointed by President Powers is Lantz Paskel, with H. M. Fiddle, Glenn Sevier, Bryan Lambert, Foster Arnold, Louis Loeing and John Brill as assistants.

The program for both meetings and drills will be determined by the executive committee in advance each month and includes inspection for water supply at farm houses served by the firemen.

The annual audit will be made by Chester Hiett, L. L. Shannholzer and Woodrow Brill.

New Boxes Installed

B. J. McWhorter installed twenty new lock boxes in the post office for Postmaster John Fisher. The boxes in the new panel are opened by combination and have already been rented by new boxholders. Fisher reported he could rent another block of twenty of the new boxes but the department was crowded for space.

A request for house-to-house delivery by a mail man is still pending, but postal receipts are still not sufficient to warrant mail delivery under the new regulations.

Moorefield Personals

High Court Denies Woman's Claim To Golden Hoard of W. Va. Farmer

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Jan. 6 (AP)—The golden hoard of aged Solomon Bills was called today to the attention of the Supreme court, which refused his sister-in-law's appeal from a decision refusing her possession of the $21,525 buried on Bills' farm near St. Marys.

Representatives of the federal government dug up the money April 22, 1937, after Bills' death and the circulation of stories in the vicinity about the gold coins he had said were hidden on the farm.

Mrs. Lydia Bills claimed she was excluded from possession of the money by other heirs and asked the Pleasants county Circuit court to award it to her in payment for the

German Bombs Hit Remote English Village, Mt. Savage Man Hears

Relatives of the Rev. Percy C. Adams Are Forced To Move Again

MT. SAVAGE, Jan. 6.—German air-raiders, strewing destruction in their paths, have again forced the two sisters and brother of the Rev. Percy C. Adams, Episcopal rector here, to move to safer quarters.

The family, which at the beginning of the war resided in the family home in Ipswich, was forced to leave that village eight months ago when the section was the target of nightly bombing. From Ipswich they moved to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Fiske, relations, in Oxfordshire, which is a remote rural village in England. For some time the village was comparatively safe, although the bombs fell uncomfortably near.

However, in the most recent letter that the Rev. Mr. Adams has received from his sister, Miss Ella Adams, it was stated that every night for over three weeks scores of German planes went "screaming overhead" toward the Midlands, where the most complete destruction is being wrought and bombs were being dropped in the immediate vicinity.

One of the bombs struck the roof of the Fiske residence, but glanced off and fell in the garden. Buckets of earth, which are always on hand for such an emergency, were thrown on the bomb and extinguished it. It was an incendiary bomb, but had no chance to do serious damage.

It made the residents realize, however, that even this secluded rural district was not a safe refuge, and the Adams family again moved. Now they are stationed at the Anglican rectory in Harrogate, Yorkshire. The rector is no relation, but like thousands of other English people, is offering his hospitality to those who are homeless during this crisis. The Rev. Mr. Adams' brother, who is Morley Adams, noted English journalist, keeps his staff of eight men and two women, together with his equipment, with him through all the moving and continues to publish daily newspapers. Mr. Adams is connected with the Associated Press, and his own articles appear daily.

In a recent public announcement, the Archbishop of Canterbury stated that over 1,000 Anglican churches, cathedrals, and parochial schools have been demolished. Coventry has been completely destroyed and a bomb has fallen through the roof of St. Paul's cathedral and demolished the high altar. The native church of the Rev. Mr. Adams, St. Margaret's in Ipswich, is entirely in ruins. This church was one of the landmarks of England, dating back before the sixteenth century.

The letter which was written and mailed by Miss Adams November 28 reached the Rev. Adams' late last week.

Last Rites Today For W. H. Sipple At St. Paul, Pa.

Meyersdale Man Released by Police after Death of Man, 71

MEYERSDALE, Pa., Jan. 6.—Rites for William Henry Sipple, 71-year-old miner of nearby St. Paul, will be conducted tomorrow at St. Paul's Lutheran church by the pastor, the Rev. Samuel D. Sipple, assisted by the Rev. A. J. Purvey, pastor of St. Paul's Evangelical and Reformed church. Burial will be in St. Paul's cemetery.

Mr. Sipple met death on the St. Paul-Salisbury road, near West Salisbury, when struck by an automobile driven by Alva J. Nicholson, of near Meyersdale, while he was walking along the highway in a blinding snowstorm on his way to Salisbury Saturday night. Mr. Nicholson had worked in a nearby mine all day Saturday and was on his way to Salisbury to do some shopping.

Nicholson, the driver of the car, summoned a physician from Salisbury, who found that the man had died instantly of a fracture at the base of the skull, a fractured left leg and fractured ribs on his left side. Officers of the Somerset station of the State Motor Police made an investigation and indicated that there would be no charges against Nicholson, who said that he did not see the man walking in the road until it was too late to avoid the accident.

Mr. Sipple was a son of the late Richard and Mary Miller Sipple. His wife, Estella Sipple, died in 1936. Surviving are two children, Dale Sipple, St. Paul, and Mrs. Freda Durst, of near Salisbury; three brothers, Lloyd Sipple, Salisbury; Francis Sipple, Jerome and George Sipple, Meyersdale; a sister, Mrs. Henry Snyder, Pocahtonax; one half-brother, Roy Sipple, St. Paul; three half-sisters, Mrs. Morgan Walker, Hay's Corners, Miss Florence Sipple, St. Paul, and Miss John Weible, Somerset; and six grandchildren.

Practicing law in Cumberland for several years, he was later admitted to the bar in Somerset county, Pa., and in 1888 he established a residence in Somerset, where he practiced law continuously up until a short time before death claimed him.

A son of Samuel and Margaret Weible Lowry, his father was a second lieutenant in Company C, Fifty-Fourth Pennsylvania Volunteers, and his grandfather, a captain in the Revolutionary war.

The strike, which if carried out would be the second in an airplane factory since start of the national defense program, would make about 240 employees idle.

The union, local 661 of the aircraft organizing division of the United Automobile Workers of America, voted to delay the start of the strike from Tuesday to Thursday at the request of the National Defense Commission so that an attempt could be made to settle differences between the company and the union.

'Mild Epidemic' of Influenza Seen For W. Va.; 405 New Cases Reported

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Jan. 6.—A sudden increase in West Virginia influenza cases which "would indicate the state might be in for a mild epidemic" was reported today by the state health department.

Reports from all but sixteen counties and city health units showed there were at least 405 new cases last week, compared with fifty-four the previous week and thirty-seven a year ago.

Churchill Creates Three New Bodies To Speed Up War

Prime Minister Takes Steps To Quickly Increase Production

LONDON, Jan. 6.—Britain's insistent demand for speed and more speed on the home front is what every Englishman believes will be the most decisive year of the war was met by Prime Minister Churchill today with the dramatically-timed creation of three new executive bodies to deal with production, imports and post-war reconstruction.

In the first major move to draft labor, Churchill put into the hands of three members of his government sweeping powers over the men and women who constitute these islands' industrial forces.

They are Labor Minister Ernest Bevin, who was placed in charge of a new production organization; Minister of Supply Sir Andrew Rae Duncan, who is to boss the all-important import group; and Minister without Portfolio Arthur Greenwood, who will make a study of post-war reconstruction.

Duties of Two Groups While Sir Andrew's group attends to "the vital business of bringing food from overseas, supplying the fighting forces and keeping the life of the country going," Bevin's organization "knowing what our output must be, must achieve it."

Bevin's "executive," as the three bodies were defined in an official announcement from No. 10 Downing street, will get broad authority to do what it likes with raw materials, with factories and workshops of Britain.

In a move to insure even further co-ordination, the newly created chairmen will sit with the heads of the existing committees of defense, home policy and food policy to advise the war cabinet concerning the home front. Sir John Anderson, lord president of the council, will sit as chairman of all these groups.

Expected Greater Speed The speed which Churchill hopes the new executives will reach, the government's official statement said, "will help the war cabinet take on an even faster tempo."

It was pointed out that if there should develop any threat of departure from the government's policy "the guiding hand of the prime minister and the war cabinet will always be there to rectify it."

The first major reorganization of Churchill's wartime government, it was interpreted as designed to streamline activities and cut to a minimum delays resulting from overlapping functions of agencies hastily established in the first year of the war.

Churchill himself assumed responsibility for insuring that the work of the imports and production bodies would correspond with general policy.

The official statement's reference to allocation of labor was the first official intimation that the government may use powers granted last May twenty-second to say where and how available manpower is to be used.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6.—Harry L. Hopkins left for London today, silent about his mission as President Roosevelt's personal envoy but confident "it won't be too long" before he returns.

He was destined on only one thing—that he would not succeed Joseph P. Kennedy as U. S. ambassador to the Court of St. James.

"There is no chance," he said, "of my taking a diplomatic post."

Affable as he boarded the Yankee Clipper, the former secretary of commerce dismissed questions about his trip with the statement that "I do not want to add anything to what the president has said."

President Roosevelt, in announcing Hopkins' assignment last week, said merely that he was going to Great Britain to obtain information.

Hopkins, who was last in England in 1934, said he knew Prime Minister Winston Churchill and "most of the other fellows in the British cabinet."

Garrett Officials Ponder Spending Of $10,000 for Ten-Pupil School

McHenry Citizens Await Construction; Commissioners Mark Time

OAKLAND, Jan. 6.—The question of "to be or not to be" still remains a puzzle as far as the construction of the McHenry school is concerned, if one is able to judge from the meagre information about it.

The fact is that a law was passed by the 1939 legislature that compels the county commissioners to levy $8,000 for construction of a two-room school at North Glade and $10,000 for construction of a two-room school at McHenry this year.

McHenry citizens recently met with county members of the legislature, and apparently are still looking for the building. At present, there are ten pupils attending the McHenry school, according to F. E. Rathburn, county superintendent.

At the time the bill was passed, there were sixteen pupils attending. Last year fifteen attended.

The "fly in the ointment" to McHenry people in some respects is a stipulation in the law which says that the state superintendent of schools must approve the plans and specifications. Judging from his stand on the Hutton school question and the consolidation of other schools, whenever possible, it is probable that the state superintendent would use that prerogative to delay construction for several years, if he so desired.

Citizens at Accident, just a few miles north of McHenry, recently asked the county commissioners for $40,000 for an addition to their school, and are hoping that some arrangement can be made to satisfy the McHenry citizens without building their school, and that the $10,000 might be used as the first payment on the Accident school.

Quick action in the legislature repealing the law of 1939 could change things a lot, many people believe, but the change has to come quickly as the county commissioners must complete the levy in a few days. The appropriation of $10,000 will cause a 5-cent levy on each $100 of assessable property in the county, it is estimated.

Apparently, there are other plans also for obtaining the $40,000 for the Accident school addition, provided the proper legislation is passed at Annapolis allowing for the money to be borrowed and repaid over a four-year period.

Action in one way or another must come soon, but at present, no one seems willing to state which way the wind will blow.

William Cuthbertson, Cemetery Road, who has been confined to his home for the past month, is improved.

Robert Plaskett, Pekin, is improving after being ill for the last two months.

Mrs. Jean Boyd had the forefinger of her left hand badly mashed when it was caught in a wringer. Six stitches were required to close the wound.

LaFollette Says FDR Is Preaching Doctrine of Fear

Declares President Battered America's Faith in Herself

CHICAGO, Jan. 6.—(P)—Philip LaFollette declared tonight that President Roosevelt "preached the doctrine of fear" in his message to the Seventy-seventh Congress, "something no other president ever done."

The former Wisconsin governor, in a nation-wide broadcast in the auspices of the American Union Committee, asserted that the United States should be "not the arena of a dying Europe, but the arena of a living, fighting Free America."

LaFollette said in his white speech:

"Sentence after sentence, you battered at America's faith in herself. You told us that this great nation which won and kept her freedom herself—that this nation is laid dead behind the battered British fleet—that our fate is being decided in Europe."

"More, you told us that eighty million Germans—because you certainly aren't afraid of Mussolini, that these eighty million people are going to conquer and hold in subjection the four hundred millions of Europe, then conquer Africa, dominate Asia—then cross thousands of miles of ocean and take of millions of Americans, fifteen million Canadians, not to mention the millions to the south of us."

"Do you of the war party mean that x x x we have grown so weak and flabby that we must prop up and be propped up by the British empire?"

"Is that what you of the war party mean when you try to frighten us into a war four thousand miles away? Have you no faith in America—in our capacity to deal boldly and intelligently with our neighbors to the south, to the east, that we may force a common defense for the safe-guarding of mutual interests and the preservation of freedom here in the west?"

LaFollette said he had "noted with admiration" for British courage "as they pay this awful price for the blunders, stupidity and selfishness of their ruling class and conduct."

"Let us not make the same mistake, the mistake of expecting other nations to fight our battles and protect our freedom."

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6.—An urgent navy request for authority to spend an additional $509,000,000 for shipbuilding and ordnance production facilities reached Congress today, and there were indications that it would be quickly approved.

Chairman Vinson (D-Ga.) of the House Naval Committee immediately introduced the authorization legislation. It was understood that the sum asked probably would be included in the first supplementary appropriation estimates sent to Congress.

The navy already has authority to use $150,000,000 for new shipbuilding facilities and $100,000,000 for increasing armor and ordnance capacity, but Secretary Knox said in a letter to Vinson that this would be exhausted "in the immediate future."

Knox added that $315,000,000 of the proposed new authority would be used for shipbuilding expansion in both navy and private yards at $194,000,000 for boosting armor-ordnance capacity.

Johnny Bulla Wins Los Angeles Golf Open

Posts 281 Total With Last Round Rally To Triumph

Poor Man's Golfer Comes from Behind To Take Title

Craig Wood Second as Thomson Drops To Fifth

By ROBERT MYERS

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 6 (AP)—Johnny Bulla, a North Carolina boy who made good in the big city of Chicago, came from behind today and won his first tournament in four years of major competition—the $10,000 Los Angeles open.

The former Greensboro shotmaker blasted out a superb round of 69, two under the 7,000-yard Riviera Country Club course, overhauled long-hitting Jimmy Thomson and outdistanced the rest of the field to post a 72-hole score of 71-66-75-69—281.

The victory, worth $3,500 to the 26-year-old Bulla, was cheered to the echo by galleries who had installed him as the popular favorite after a two-stroke penalty for playing the wrong ball had set him behind Thomson in yesterday's third round.

Craig Wood, the big blond from Mamaroneck, N. Y., sneaked into second place and $1,700 of the rich purse with a 68 today for 283, while the pace-setting Thomson faded with a 74 for 285—one stroke back of Clayton Heafner of Linville, N. C., who had a 70, and Benny Hogan, White Plains, N. Y., who also had a 70.

Bulla, the "poor man's golfer," he uses golf balls that cost 35 cents—went into the last round trailing Thomson by one stroke. Still liked by that two-stroke penalty imposed for playing J. McSpaden's ball yesterday, he toured the first nine holes in 34, one under, and clipped another stroke off par for 33 on the way home.

Thomson needed 36 blows to get around the first nine, and six blows to get untrapped and down on the tenth. His game became uncertain as the weather, which turned from sunshine to rain and back to sunshine from noon on to dusk.

Willie Goggin of Miami, Fla., finished in a tie with Thomson, while another perennial gallery favorite, Horton Smith, of Oak Park, Ill., turned on the heat with his putter and posted a 49 for a 286.

Denny Shute, now of Coral Gables, Fla., ran into hard luck but came out with a 74 and 287 while National Open champion Lawson Little and 1940 winner of this event, had a 73 for 288, former open king Ralph Guldahl, 75 for 293 and Jimmy Demarest, Houston, Texas, still another pre-tournament favorite, 72-296 and Sam Snead, 79-296.

Byron Nelson of Toledo finished one of his worst 72 holes; he had a 78 for 302.

Bulla and Sam Snead together first ventured to California's winter tournament trail four years ago and both have come back each year. Snead, meantime, had become a national figure. Bulla's only fame was in leading the field going into the last round of the 1939 National Open at Philadelphia. He blew up and Byron Nelson emerged the champion.

Pirates Apt to Win One of These Years

By JOHN LARDNER

North American Newspaper Alliance

NEW YORK, Jan. 6 (AP)—Man and boy, since he turned in his drum at Appomattox, your agent has been placing a small wager every year on the Pittsburgh Pirates to win the National League pennant.

Times have been tough since 1927, but you can see what a sucker's play it would be to stop now. If I quit and the Pirates suddenly win their flag, all the years and all the doubts I have given to this worthy cause will be wasted, and I will kick myself up and down Maple Street from Cedar to Hemlock, cursing softly.

I thought we had it in 1938. In that year, you remember, the bold Buccaneers were off in front by seven games in September. The Pittsburgh office printed world series tickets, rare specimens of which may still be seen in the files of certain lucky collectors, and the athletes speculated on whether they would face Ruffing or Gomez in the first game of the series.

Your correspondent prepared to cash in. I had my eye on a magnificent goatskin evening wrap for the little woman, a team of blooded mules for myself, to help with the plowing, and a case of bonded bourbon apiece for the kiddies.

Dream Castle Crashed

Then, as the poet says, my dream castle crashed. Some person by the name of Hartnett hit a home run off Mace Brown, and the Cubs stole the dry goods from under our noses. The wife and little ones had to take to the street corners with a tambourine-and-patter act to get us through the winter. Imagine my feelings every evening, when they came trooping home with a few coppers in the old tambourine, bitter cold, and woke me up to tell me how they made out. I scarcely had the heart to look at my daily racing form.

Well, things are better now. The wife and tots are working steady, and the old wound has healed. But I still think it would be downright folly not to be aboard those Pirates with a few pesetas in 1941. Suppose they win?

I asked Mr. Francis P. Frisch, their manager, about it the other day. Mr. Frisch was pretty cozy. He held his cards close to his waistcoat. He did not recommend the investment. But after all, Frisch is one of those morbidly conservative characters who stop their cars at red lights and never bought a block of gold mine stock in their lives. You have to read between the lines of what they say.

My ball club is not as bad as it might be," said Mr. Frisch. "They can hit a little."

Hit a little? No man can hoodwink your correspondent with a faltering understatement like that. Why, the Pirates are the most vicious collection of sluggers, the most powerful—

And I could use another good catcher," reflected Mr. Frisch.

What Does He Want?

Another catcher? What for? Frisch already has a catcher who hit better than 250, and another who stopped practically every pitch that came his way. What does he want, Ray Schalk?

"But the big problem, of course, is the pitchers," continued Mr. Frisch. "The only pitcher who gave us much service last year was Rip Sewell. I look for him to do a faster start next season, and to get us some good. Lanahan and Heinzelman should come along. Brown will help, and maybe one or two of the new men will show me something. But I don't kid myself that we have a strong pitching staff as it stands."

That's Frisch all over for you. With a pitching staff like that, he worries. He has the great Sewell, the fearless Brown, the strikingly left-handed Heinzelman, the amazingly left-handed Lanahan, and some newcomers who (and I have this straight from their mothers) are the nicest sort of fellows you could ask to meet. And Frisch complains.

Obviously, from what he says, from the very look of his roster, it would be financial suicide not to bet on the Pirates this year. I would be robbing myself and my goings. Picture the coarse laughter in Wall Street if it got about that the Pirates won and Lardner without a bob on them!

Undoubtedly this is a surefire investment. Beyond question it is safe as houses. Why, take Vince Di Maggio alone—

At that, it might be a good idea to put a few farthings on Cincinnati, Brooklyn, St. Louis, Boston, and Chicago, just in case all of Frisch's men are ravaged by the flu, or the draft gets them. But you'll have to admit that they're apt to win, one of these years.

Alice Marble Is Easy Winner in Pro Tennis Bow

NEW YORK, Jan. 6 (AP)—"Queen Alice" Marble bowed into professional tennis tonight by easily conquering Mary Hardwick, the English champion 8-6, 8-6, before a good-sized crowd in Madison Square Garden.

Making the first appearance in a tour which will take her to more than 50 cities in the United States, Cuba, Canada and the Bahamas—and will net her at least $25,000—the blonde Californian got off to a ragged start, but went on without too much trouble.

Miss Hardwick, who had been defeated six times by Miss Marble in amateur tennis, fought doggedly to the finish, but just didn't have enough to do any more. She held a 4-0 lead in the first set, and staved off match point three times in the second before bowing out.

Alice, started out as though she didn't know how to operate on the green canvas court. She lost the first four games, mostly on lack of control, as her fore-hand showed a tendency toward unnecessary length. Then she found the range and dead-locked the score at four-all, breaking through the English girl's service on the eighth game. Miss Hardwick proceeded to fall apart momentarily there, and Alice had 6-5 and match point before her control left her again. Finally in the fourteenth game, Miss Marble forced Mary into four errors to take the set.

In the second set, service followed through thirteen games, but Miss Marble, except for recurrent moments of ragged control, just continued to wear the Briton down.

In the thirteenth game, Miss Hardwick threatened momentarily to take the upper hand, when she shot the advantage after deuce on a fine passing shot. But Alice held service and then went on the break through in the fourteenth game as Miss Hardwick committed four errors, bunting a short one into the net for the final point.

The return of pro tennis to the Garden brought out a crowd of about 10,000.

West Virginia Beats Carnegie Tech 59-45

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 6 (AP)—West Virginia university's Mountaineers proved superior to Carnegie Tech's Tartans by a margin of seven field goals tonight, the visitors winning 59 to 45 in handing Tech its sixth consecutive basketball setback.

Both clubs rung up 13 points from the foul line but West Virginia, with Jimmy Ruch, junior forward scoring 10 points, led in fielders 23 to 16. Brinn and Burch for Tech and Barie for the Mountaineers made 11 points apiece.

West Virginia jumped to an early lead and was ahead 23 to 17 at half time.

Carnegie's rosters grew hopeful when the Mountaineers' great pivot star, Barie, was chased after six minutes of the third period was gone due to four personal fouls. Hicks, however, proved himself a very capable understudy.

In a preliminary contest the West Virginia freshmen, coached by Ray Carmely, a former Skibo floor and grid star, smothered Tech's yearlings 49 to 21. Martz, a center, rang up 13 points for the young Mountaineers.

The lineups:

INDIANAPOLIS, Jan. 6 (AP)—David Allerdice, Jr., 22, Princeton University football star, was reported "in good condition" and "improving nicely" tonight at Methodist Hospital where he and his 53-year-old father are under treatment for burns suffered early yesterday in a fire which took the lives of Mrs. Allerdice, Sr., and her youngest son.

The father, who captained the University of Michigan football team in 1909, was "still serious" and his condition was unchanged, attendants said.

Rain Halts Dixie Tennis Tourney

TAMPA, Fla. Jan. 6 (AP)—The start of the Dixie tennis tournament, in which Don McNeill and Bobby Riggs renew their rivalry for top national ranking, was delayed today by a steady rain that made courts unfit for play.

Tournament officials set the entire program back one day, scheduling for tomorrow matches which were to have been played today. However, the weather continued sloppy and it appeared uncertain whether the courts would be in condition for a start tomorrow.

McNeill, national singles champion, is seeded first in the tournament and Riggs, the 1939 champion, and currently second ranking man player in the country, is seeded second.

Lopez Sees Bucs In Thick of Flag Race

TAMPA, Fla. Jan. 6 (AP)—Catcher Al Lopez hasn't received his 1941 contract from the Pittsburgh Pirates but he isn't worrying because:

1. He Doesn't expect any salary raise.

2. He thinks the Bucs will be in the thick of next summer's pennant race.

"We got going down the stretch last season and I think we'll pick up where we left off," the veteran backstop said today, adding a word of praise for Manager Frankie Frisch.

"The Reds will be hard to beat, and Brooklyn is supposed to be better, but don't think it is a two-club race. We have team spirit under Frisch, and the infield problem will be settled with Alf Anderson coming up from Atlanta."

Lopez joined the Pirates midway of 1940 and was a steady factor as the club recovered from a shaky start.

Princeton Grid Star Now "In Good Condition"

100 Witnesses Expected To Appear before Jury

January Term of Circuit Court Opens, Judge Joseph D. Mish Charges to Jurymen

Approximately 100 witnesses are scheduled to testify before the January term grand jury which convened yesterday at the court house with Roy W. Eves, 103 Washington street, as foreman.

Judge Mish instructs Jurymen. Associate Judge Joseph D. Mish, Hagerstown, charged the grand jury yesterday morning. Members of the jury are:

Eves, foreman; Clarence E. Landis, Thomas Smith, Solomon H. Brode, Sr., Charles A. Richards, Walter W. McGregg, Robert M. Shuck, John T. Creggan, George W. Kreitzburg, Thornton S. Twigg, John P. Schellhaas, Robert E. Lemmer, Sidney D. Phillips, Robert A. Robertson, Joseph S. Collins, William B. McCombs, John J. Stump, John R. Kiddy, Howard L. Hocken, Benjamin F. Snyder, Clarence A. Spitznagel, Joseph J. Brooks and Robert E. Beall.

Judge Mish, appointed by Gov. O'Connor two weeks ago to succeed Judge Frank G. Wagoner, was formally introduced from the bench yesterday by Chief Judge D. Lindley Sloan. William M. Somerville, president of the Allegany County Bar Association, gave a short address of welcome.

Pays Tribute to Wagoner. In reply, Judge Mish paid tribute to Judge Wagoner as one of the best jurists in the history of Maryland courts and expressed his ambition to live up to the high standards he had set during his long tenure of judgeship in the Fourth district. Judge Mish also expressed his desire to cooperate with members of the Allegany County bar within the limits of his judicial authority.

Members of the petit jury were instructed to report for duty today at 9:15 a. m. Jurymen are:

Arthur S. Meek, George F. Weltman, Eli L. Phillips, Joseph A. Rice, Nick G. Scarpelli, Hugh Devlin, Walter E. Scheemesser, John H. Lohr, Douglas H. Bauer, Willard I. Moyer, John E. Boies, Harold E. Nivon, Emory A. Thompson, George A. Little, Friend H. Rockwell, Bruce D. Smith, Thomas Davis, William M. Keller, Paul O. Maury, Hice R. Laughlin, Alexander Rankin, Isaac Morgan, Joseph E. Gerstle, Eugene C. Landis and William H. Berry.

Suspended Sentences Pronounced. Suspended sentences of two years in the Maryland House of Correction were imposed yesterday by Judge Sloan upon the manager and three employees of the Blue Ridge Oil Company who had pleaded guilty to charges of false pretenses and conspiracy to defraud.

Those sentenced were Samuel M. Thompson, manager, and C. W. Phillips, Richard A. Porter and Don M. Huffman.

Democrats Make Plans To Wipe Out Two Deficits

Hope To Pay Old Debt and Make Allegany County Democratic

The Democratic workers of Allegany County, about 100 in number last night were advised at the Cosmopolitan Club, North Mechanic street, how the party leaders plan to wipe out two party deficits in the county. The first is the sum of $890, a hangover from campaigns in the late twenties, and the second is the Republican book majority of 4,300 registration.

Joseph H. Griffin, chairman of the Allegany County State Central Committee opened the meeting by calling attention to the two items which were the theme of each following speaker, then introduced Magistrate Oliver H. Bruce Jr., chairman of the Democratic Registration committee in the county.

Would Change Voters. Mr. Bruce spoke not so much of the financial deficit as of the fact that the Republican majority has been reduced gradually in Allegany as in other counties in the Sixth Congressional district, and noted that in this county in the last registration, the Democrats, for the first time in twenty years, had actually put more new voters on the books than did the Republicans. He also called attention to the fact that in Garrett County, likewise, the Democrats have made small inroads on the Republican majority.

Mr. Bruce then outlined a plan to have all Democratic workers take a printed form and have registered Republicans change their affiliation. He detailed how the Democrats should go about this, and announced that the forms had been donated to the Registration committee by John J. McMullen.

He announced that the forms when filled out could be notarized and "should then be turned over to him at the trial magistrate's court, and that if he was not there to receive them, they should be turned over to the clerk of the court."

Waller C. Capper Will Preside at State Meeting

Maryland Lawyers To Plan Legislative Reforms at Baltimore Session

Waller C. Capper, state president, last evening said that judges and lawyers from all parts of Maryland will gather in Baltimore Saturday, January 11, to plan possible legislative reforms for presentation at a special midwinter meeting of the Maryland State Bar Association.

Capper said that the bar session is scheduled for 10 a. m. at the Hotel Belvedere. Business sessions will precede and follow a luncheon at the hotel. The session will close with a formal dinner.

The state president said that William C. W. attorney general and Horace P. W. north, of Westport, will be among the members of the bar from this section of the state attending the meeting.

Among the matters to be considered at the meeting is a change in the methods of filling vacancies in the judicial ranks. The state group will limit its plans to the various counties and leave the Baltimore Bar Association free to propose methods of selecting judges for Baltimore city. At last summer's session of the state bar, some friction over the question developed between state and city members.

Reports of various committees will come before the bar association members in addition to the report on new plans for judicial selection. Most of the questions, however, will involve the judiciary.

Other subjects scheduled for discussion are judicial pensions, which lawyers contend should be materially increased; allocation of special duties to retired judges; and assignment of active judges to counties as the work may require, which is not possible outside of the judicial circuits established under existing laws.

Arrangements for the law meeting are being completed by Capper and James W. Chapman, Jr., secretary of the association.

Wilson Road Will Be Repaired under A WPA Project

The Wilson road from Oldtown to the low-water toll bridge which connects with Greenspring, Va., will be repaired under a WPA project, according to John H. Carcaden, engineer in charge of county work done under WPA.

The high bridge over the C and O canal will be lowered about ten feet and a bridge of steel girders with a wood plank floor constructed as part of the work.

The United States Department of the Interior granted permission to the county to lower the bridge with the understanding that in the event the canal is ever put in operation again the county will remove it at its own expense.

Under terms of the project the WPA will furnish $10,567 and the county commissioners $3,828 for the work. The project gets underway today.

MOTORISTS ADVISED BY ELGIN TO SAVE SAFETY STICKERS

W. Lee Elgin, state motor vehicle commissioner, asks two things of motorists to facilitate the issuance of 1941 license tags.

He requests, first, that they save their safety inspection stickers until they have filed applications for their tags, and that they be sure in making out the applications to give their correct addresses.

Last year, he stated, of approximately 400,000 sets of license tags which were issued, 20,000 were returned because of incorrect address, change of address, etc.

Elgin urges that drivers keep their safety inspection stickers until they have filed their tag applications because the stickers bear the numbers of the stations at which their cars were examined.

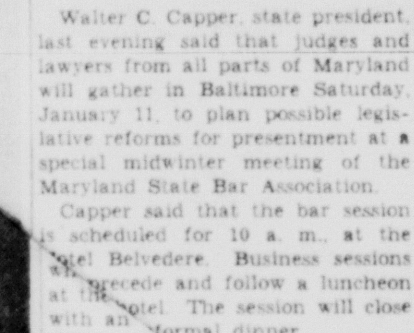

If they dispose of the stickers before filing tag applications, he continued, they probably will forget the numbers of their inspection stations in making out the applications. The number must be given, and if it is not readily available, it will delay the job of tag issuance. The task begins February 15.

Lawyer Moves Office

Harold E. Naughton, local attorney, has moved his office from Room 35 to Room 36 on the fourth floor of the Liberty Trust building and is no longer associated with Richard P. Wertheimer and Peter J. Carpentieri in the law business.

Former Local Man Predicts Nazi Raid On New York

Dr. Charles F. Bove Thinks Germany Will Declare War on America

A former Cumberland physician, Dr. Charles F. Bove, yesterday predicted Germany will declare war on America within a month or six weeks and might try to bomb New York city to cause panic and block the sending of war supplies to Great Britain.

The Associated Press sent out the dispatch under a New York dateline.

Dr. Bove practiced in Cumberland about twenty years ago and his office was located on Virginia avenue.

The Associated Press quoted Dr. Bove as saying that complete plans have been made for such an eventuality, including plans for removal of civilians.

Hospitals should be built thirty-five to forty feet underground from New York, he said, army and civilian physicians should be taught the new technique necessary for treating Blitzkrieg victims, and sub-basements should be strengthened to they could be used as bomb shelters.

Dr. Bove disclosed that about the middle of this month, in co-operation with Botham hospital, he would begin courses to teach physicians inducted into military service the new war surgery technique that has developed with the "Blitz war" and also to train civilian doctors to handle civilian defense medical problems.

He suggested that American army and navy medical authorities pay more attention to new techniques of war surgery, asserting that neither the army nor the navy had any medical observers in France.

Dr. Bove, a former chief surgeon of the American hospital in Paris.

The youth suffered a fractured pelvis, fractured right leg and ankle, injuries to the left leg and bruises, when he was pinned under a half-ton boulder near the rocky summit of Haystack mountain, above the Narrows, December 21.

Officer L. H. Chambers, city policeman, of 903 Maryland avenue, who underwent an operation yesterday at Allegany hospital, was reported to be in a "good" condition last night.

McKenzie is scheduled to deliver his talks on the eleventh day of each month in commemoration of the signing of the World War armistice, November 11, 1918.
